

Good Shepherd Lutheran Church Awards Four Scholarships

The Women of Good Shepherd (WOGS) Lutheran Church were honored to present four scholarships at Northumberland High School's Senior Recognition Award Program on June 2. To be considered for the scholarship, seniors must be planning to continue their education at a two or four year college, an apprenticeship program, or at a business, technical, trade or nursing school. In addition to the school's common scholarship application that included grades, school and community activities, students were also encouraged to include their involvement with their church congregation and required to submit an essay that gives witness to Christ as a part of their educational life. "The WOGS scholarship committee really had a difficult time making a final selection as all the application packages were extremely well written and, no doubt, all the students were very deserving of recognition" according to WOGS President Susan Hall.

Hall presented Briana Hamblin and Olivia Vogel each a $750 scholarship. Mary Kathryn Hall was awarded a $1,000 scholarship and Macy Swift received a $1,500 scholarship. The entire congregation of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church wishes the very best for these outstanding students and all the area graduates as they pursue their life goals.
